

W2D2 Memo #2

24 October 2018

Hello all,

Welcome to our second Memo for World Wide Data Day 2018. We've made real progress with 29 institutions and 11 videoconference moderators signed on so far (and more expected). Please let your colleagues know about W2D2 – maybe they can join with their classes.

Here's the news:

- The W2D2 introductory slides have been revised. Please take a look. Any suggestions for further revisions? Should it be split into two versions, one for ATLAS and one for CMS?
- Also revised: the ATLAS screencast and the CMS screencast. These are more tied to the current versions of the event displays.
- I just spent a bit of time cleaning up the Google sheet. If you use it before Nov 15, please let me know so I do not erase your work next time I clean up the sheet. Please also be sure to enter only one line per class. You should put in the combined results from your class in that line. The histogram for your class should be made elsewhere. I recommend making it with sticky notes!

Next week we will talk about Vidyo tests (highly recommended) and publicizing your event, among other things. Send in your questions and we will see if we can use them, along with the replies, in the Memo.

This and all W2D2 memos will be posted on the website at <http://tiny.cc/w2d2-18>.

Thanks and all the best,

Ken
